Ground Covers

Wall and Tree Vines

There is an increasing demand for ground covers, particularly evergreen kinds which are so beautifully adapted to the needs of our small modern gardens and today's low ranch houses. We list the following Ivies, all unexcelled for ground cover use, lending year-round foliage and color to the landscape.

Hedera helix "Coronet"

The accepted standard big leaf type, desirable for ground cover in heavy shade. The leaves are large and glossy. Not quite as winter hardy as the two succeeding kinds, but if planted on north exposures or in protected places, the beauty attained is exceptional.

Pots 25 @ $3.75; 100 @ $14.00; 1000 @ $125.00

Hedera helix "Longfellow"

A selected hardy strain, considerably improved and preferred over the so-called "Baltica" variety. The leaves are smaller than "Coronet", and are deep green and bright. A fine ground cover and an unexcelled tree or wall cover.

Pots 25 @ $3.75; 100 @ $14.00; 1000 @ $125.00

Hedera helix "Thorndale"

One of the hardiest varieties available today. The leaf color is deep green, glossy, and the plant spreads rapidly. Another distinguished selection which is an excellent climber and an equally good ground cover plant.

Pots 25 @ $4.50; 100 @ $16.00; 1000 @ $140.00
